New England's Monthly Numismatic Catalog

Inventory Selections Offers More Special Values

Flipping through this issue of Inventory Selections, you'll notice more coins offered at special value prices than ever before. This is part of our catalog's "new look" which we introduced last issue. This month, and in months to come, Inventory Selections will feature not only a more selective group of quality coin listings, but a greater volume of special value offerings as well. In this way, we hope to give you, our regular customers, easier access to New England's outstanding inventory.

Readers who have ordered New England World Selections, the new bi-monthly catalog from New England Rare Coin Galleries' Ancient and World Coin Division, will be receiving their first copy in early May. This premiere issue will feature our entire inventory of high-quality ancient and world coins, a beautiful color centerspread of selected world coinage, a World Coin Market Report, and more. Frank Garofalo, manager of our Ancient and World Coin Division, has just returned from a major buying trip in Europe, and is now grading and cataloging some exciting new purchases for the first issue. If you haven't ordered your free trial subscription, give your New England numismatist a call.

As this issue of Inventory Selections goes to press, our auction division, New England Rare Coin Auctions, is conducting the 1980 Metropolitan New York Sale. In our May issue, we'll bring you a complete report of prices realized and a special photo spread. New England Rare Coin Auctions was honored to be selected for the fourth consecutive year to conduct this prestigious sale, and we were especially proud to offer New England Rare Coin Fund I, a collection of 196 fabulous rarities hand-picked by James Halperin, New England's founder and one of the country's leading numismatists. Also offered was the impressive Bilbrey Collection of Seated Half Dimes. This elegant, complete series included such highly desirable specimens as the extremely rare 1852-O, a condition census 1844-O, and a Mint State 1864.

Please remember that Inventory Selections is sent free for a full year to readers who order $150 or more from New England's retail rare coin inventory. An order of $275 or more entitles you to two free years.

The Gallery Window

A special series profiling

New England Rare Coin Galleries' numismatic experts.

Warren Mills

Exploring curiosity shops seems to be a tradition in Cambridge, Massachusetts. It was because of this tradition that New England numismatist Warren Mills first discovered rare coins. "I walked into a hobby shop — I think I was about 10 years old at the time — and I flipped through a copy of the Red Book, amazed by the prices. So I immediately sifted through my pocket change and I actually did find some pieces worth more than their face value — including a 1909-VDB [Lincoln Cent], which was worth about 5¢ back then."

From that small, accidental beginning, Warren's interest in coin collecting grew swiftly. He was soon buying pre-1964 quarters, dimes and half dollars from friends. Soon after, he bought his first gold coin: an AU $1 piece costing $10. "When I began buying coins, my parents weren't too sure about my hobby. But later, when I sold my gold dollar for $115 to buy books for college, they saw collectible coins in a different light."

Warren attended Bentley College in Waltham, Massachusetts, where, despite his tight budget, he still managed to keep his hand in numismatics. "I used to attend coin auctions and advise friends on what to buy. Soon, everyone started showing me coins, asking what I thought of them." In 1977, Warren attended his first New England Rare Coin Auctions sale and was "totally in awe of the entire operation. The professionalism was extremely impressive — and it was my first chance to see truly high-quality coins selling for what were then incredible prices."

After graduating with a B.S. in Business Management and Marketing, and an Associate's Degree in Accounting, Warren offered his extensive experience and skill to the company that had so impressed him during his school days. Warren's present duties include aiding customers of New England's retail gallery in downtown Boston, and servicing collector telephone inquiries. In his free time, he enjoys fishing trips, sports, competing in card tournaments and talking about rare coins. "I think what excites me most about rare coins is their aesthetic and historic appeal — and their counter-cyclical financial nature. They've always performed well in times of economic instability — and there are very few tangibles that can make that claim."

ONE YEAR OF TYPE COIN

1883 NO CENTS LIBERTY HEAD
NICKEL, MS-63

In 1883, the first Liberty Head Nickels appeared without the word "cents" on the coin, merely the large letter "V." These coins were gold-plated and passed for five dollars, thus the name "Racketeer Nickels." The word "cents" was added later that year.

“If you study Redfield’s investments, you see a man of stunning wisdom and foresight.”

Christopher Tracey
Vice-President, Retail Sales

“LaVere Redfield, the man with the world’s largest silver dollar collection, is usually portrayed as an eccentric. He walked around Reno in torn shirts and tattered denims. He bought unlabeled and bent cans of food because they were cheap. He rolled his pick-up down a hill each morning to conserve the battery. Most everyone has heard these stories, but few have looked deeper. If you study Redfield’s investments, you see a man of stunning wisdom and foresight.

“Redfield built his estate (valued at between $60 million and $100 million) by making a series of shrewd investments. He bought stocks, land, and oil during the Depression. At the time, his friends laughed and considered Redfield foolish.

“It was with this same foresight that Redfield amassed his silver dollar collection. Distrusting the currency of the day, he put his money into something “hard.” Piece by piece, Redfield purchased 407,283 Morgan and Peace Dollars from the local bank — at $1 per coin. Shortly after his death in 1974, the silver dollars were sold for $7 million.

“Redfields are still extremely affordable. And right now, with silver dollar collecting on the verge of a rebirth, Redfields look particularly attractive.”

I've read a lot about the Carson City Sale but very little about the mint itself. Could you give me some information about the former mint? — L.L., San Francisco, CA

In 1850, Mormons en route to the California gold fields prospected in Nevada's Carson River and found traces of alluvial gold. They called the area Gold Canyon, and within a year more than 200 miners were busy washing traces of gold from the river's gray-blue sands. Then, in 1859, two Nevadans discovered that the sand also had a very high silver content. As the news spread, speculators, miners, and merchants arrived from California, and the bonanza became known as the Comstock Lode. In the years 1860 to 1863, over $22,000,000 worth of silver and gold were mined there. After the silver was mined, the bullion was usually transported to California where it was turned into coin and then returned to the Nevada silver producers. These high transportation costs reduced the producers' yields and prompted the establishment of a mint in the territory.

On March, 3, 1863, Congress passed a bill authorizing a Branch Mint in Nevada. In 1866, a three-person committee approved the Carson City location donated by Abe Curry, founder of this town. The mint opened in January 1870 and began producing coins of the highest silver denominations (dimes through dollars) and the highest gold denominations ($5 through $20). But mintages were modest compared to the millions of dollars worth of silver being extracted from the Nevada soil because production costs were sky-high. Silver producers were taxed in an amount equal to the cost of transporting the bullion to San Francisco. This negated any savings promised by the Carson City Mint. The cost of producing coins in Carson City was double that of San Francisco and over five times that of Philadelphia.

The Carson City Mint was a financial failure from the start, and eventually most of the Comstock Lode Silver was shipped to Philadelphia for coinage. The small number of coins which emanated from the Carson City Mint from 1870 to 1893 (when all coinage operations were suspended) include some of America's numismatic rarities. Seated Liberty Silver Dollars, for example, were minted in very small numbers. In 1871, only 1,376 silver dollars with the "CC" mintmark were coined, and in 1873 (the last year for Seated Liberty coinage) just 2,300 were produced.

The Carson City Mint later served as an Assay Office until a decreasing volume of work resulted in the final closing in June 1933. The property is currently owned by the state of Nevada. A museum, which houses the original Carson City Dollar press, is operated on the premises. This press was reconditioned to strike the official Nevada 1976 Bicentennial Medals.

Browsing through a world coin catalog, I noticed many countries show living persons on their coinage. What is the U.S. policy regarding portraits of living persons? — D.B., Ithaca, NY

When the U.S. Mint was established in 1792, many members of the Senate favored a representation of President Washington's head on each coin. A bill that originated in the Senate just one year before had proposed that, "upon one side of each of the said coins, there shall be the head of the President of the United States for the time being." But the House considered the idea a monarchical practice, and Washington himself is believed to have expressed his disapproval. The House amended that section to read, "upon one side of the said coins, there shall be an impression emblematic of liberty." Since that time, living persons have never appeared on regular issue U.S. coinage.

However, some specimens of Colonial and Early U.S. coinage portrayed persons who were alive at the time.

In addition, engravers of U.S. coins frequently used living people as models for Liberty. George T. Morgan, for instance, patterned his version of Liberty after Anna Williams, a 19-year-old Philadelphia girl. (Her identity was discovered only by accident when a newspaper man noticed that the silver dollar was a startling likeness of her.) With these exceptions, no living person appeared on a U.S. coin until 1921, when the Alabama Centennial Half Dollar was minted.

The Alabama Commemorative bears conjoining busts of William Wyatt Bibb, first governor of Alabama, and Thomas E. Kilby, then governor of the state. Why did a governor receive the honor? The reasons are political. When the Alabama Half Dollar was authorized in 1920, it was to bear portraits of President Monroe, who was in office when Alabama joined the Union, and President Wilson, who was in office when Alabama celebrated its centennial. Wilson was to be the first living person honored on a U.S. coin. But Republican Harding replaced Democrat Wilson in March 1921 — three months before the half dollar was sculptured. Wilson's power and fame quickly evaporated, and political overtures were made to change the design.

I have some Brilliant Uncirculated coins that are getting blotchy silver tarnish marks on them in my album. Would it hurt to dip them in a silver cleaner? How come some seem to tone evenly while others just get spots here and there? — W.R., Cedar Grove, NJ

Because silver coins are often more desirable if they are lightly toned, we usually suggest that coins such as yours be left alone and not cleaned. All types of cleaning, even the most careful dipping, can change a coin's surface, affecting its appearance and value.

Whether a coin tones evenly or unevenly depends upon the composition of the air to which it is exposed while in storage. When first minted, silver coins have a bright silvery-white surface. Once they enter the air, however, their surfaces begin to oxidize. Uncirculated silver pieces stored in a carefully controlled environment often exhibit very beautiful multi-colored iridescent hues after a few years and may eventually turn deep brown. A coin stored where the air contains, for example, particles of sulphite, may tone unevenly because sulphite will oxidize surfaces it comes into contact with extremely quickly.

Market Report

by Tim LaPointe

At the shows

Despite economic uncertainty, enthusiasm for rare coins continues to run high. Activity was brisk and attendance heavy at last month's shows: the Las Vegas Numismatic Convention (held March 6-9 in Las Vegas, Nevada) and the Bay State Coin & Stamp Show (held March 14-16 in Boston, Massachusetts). Interest in high-priced top-quality rare coins also remains unaffected by the economy. This was apparent at the long-awaited Garrett Sale conducted by Bowers & Ruddy Galleries, March 26-27 in Beverly Hills, California. Activity was strong at The Garrett Sale, with many price records reported broken.

Buyer interest is further piqued by the 1980 Metropolitan New York Sale to be conducted by New England Rare Coin Auctions April 11-13. Buyers seem particularly enthusiastic about New England Rare Coin Fund I, an array of rarities hand-picked by James Halperin for their investment potential (a precursor to the now-famous New England Rare Coin Partnership I). The second major offering at Metro is The Bilbrey Collection of Seated Half Dimes, a complete series that includes some extreme rarities.

Gold

Gold bullion is currently at $475, down almost 25% from when we last reported to you. This sharp drop has obviously had an effect on the bullion coin market, with Kruggerands, Maple Leafs, and Mexican 50 Pesos experiencing equivalent percentage losses. This downward trend seems to have slowed the growth of most common-date U.S. gold coins, although choice specimens are still bringing higher prices. But gold bullion prices appear to be settling in the high-$400 to low-$500 range. If bullion stabilizes at this level, the price of common-dates is expected to move rapidly again. Proof gold and gold rarities in top condition have been unaffected by the drop in gold prices. This was quite apparent at The Garrett Sale. Proof Quarter Eagles dated 1870 or later sold for between $18,000 and $35,000, depending on their condition. Matte-Proof Indian Head Type Quarter Eagles traded at between $27,000 and $45,000 per coin, with a Choice 1915 bringing $45,000. Proof Liberty Double Eagles traded at The Garrett Sale for between $47,500 and $90,000 per coin. The only disappointing gold prices were for Matte-Proof St. Gaudens Double Eagles which brought substantial returns ($60,000 to $90,000 per coin) but failed to attain the extraordinary levels some experts had predicted.

Silver

Silver bullion prices have declined sharply in recent weeks and sent many U.S. financial markets into a temporary tailspin. As this report is being written, silver bullion is $14.50 per ounce, a 57% decline from last month. But collectible silver coinage has been largely unaffected by this downward trend, with many showing sharp gains. Mercury Dimes have proven so popular that dealer bid levels have reached $100,000 for complete BU roll sets without full bands — and even at that price, dealers have had little success acquiring these sets. Mercury Dimes rolls from 1934-1945 and Roosevelt Dime rolls from 1948-1957 have gone up sharply, while later date Roosevelt rolls (1958-1963) have remained stable despite the decline in silver prices.

One of the major silver coinage success stories continues to be Walking Liberty Half Dollars. It seems that nothing can dampen the popularity of these pieces on today's market. Many dealers report paying record prices for top-quality specimens (when they can be found).

Silver dollars are showing the first signs of breaking out of the inactivity of the past few months. According to the Coin Dealer Newsletter, many silver dollars in MS-60 and MS-65 are showing increases. Silver dollar rarities have recently brought outstanding prices. At The Garrett Sale, an 1804 silver dollar traded hands for $400,000.

U.S. Currency

As rare coin prices climbed even higher this month, U.S. currency continued to gain strength. All series are now being considered by collectors and investors alike. Choice collections trading hands at auction are consistently setting new price records. While these prices are usually realized by Choice and Gem notes, Choice AU or extra Extremely Fine notes are expected to show a price surge in coming months.

Educational Notes and Bison & Chief Notes are still very popular among collectors and investors. But more sophisticated buyers have begun to study the U.S. currency market and are now obtaining rare yet undervalued notes. There is particular interest in the legal tender notes of 1862, 1863, and 1874 as well as the popular and rare Rainbow series of 1869. National Bank Notes of 1875 are just beginning to attract the attention of type collectors. These beautifully rendered notes are certain to show price gains in the near future.

World Coins

New England's Ancient & World Coin Division has just completed a three-week buying trip in more than 20 cities in 10 European countries. In viewing the inventories of leading numismatists, our buyers were struck by the fact that top-quality coins, regardless of country, were in short supply even though the overall number of coins was quite large.

Activity at the Berlin Munzenbörse (held March 30-31 in West Berlin) was hectic with about 100 dealers in attendance. But again, the supply of high-quality coins was very thin. Dealers eagerly bought the available choice coins for between 50% and 300% over the latest Money Trend prices. This is a strong indication that the European market for top-quality world coins is coming alive.

An Invitation to Greater Knowledge

Numismatics is a world unto itself — vast in scope, rich in history, fascinating in detail. To explore this world is to be captivated by it — and to explore it fully is to become a member of the American Numismatic Association.

The American Numismatic Association (the A.N.A.) is the world's largest and most active numismatic organization. And when you join, you'll receive:

Use of the A.N.A. Library The largest numismatic library in the world from which you can borrow all kinds of numismatic reference works.

The Numismatist A scholarly monthly magazine sent free to all regular, club, junior and life A.N.A. members. Through The Numismatist you'll expand your collecting horizons and become knowledgeable in a wealth of numismatic subjects.

ANACS Service The A.N.A.'s grading and authentication service for all your coins at a special membership rate.

Insurances Offered through the A.N.A. for your collection, your health, and your life.

Plus you'll receive a free Dictionary of Numismatic Terms, an Introduction to Numismatics, and an invitation to participate in the A.N.A.'s annual conventions and auctions.

A U.S. CURRENCY SPECIAL VALUE

CUT SHEETS OF U.S. LARGE SIZE SILVER CERTIFICATES AT SPECIAL VALUES

Large Size Notes are among the most avidly-sought examples of collectible U.S. Currency — and high-grade sheets of such notes have proven particularly popular. Now, New England Rare Coin Galleries offers an extremely select number of Large Size Silver Certificate Cut Sheets. FR #237 and FR #238.

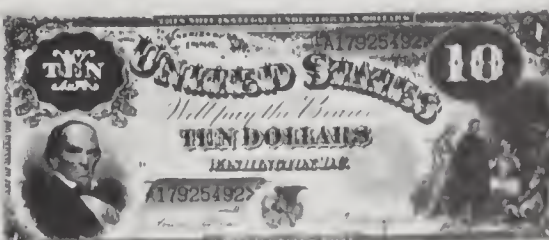

These sheets were issued in 1923, just 6 years before U.S. Currency was reduced to its present 6" x 2 3/4" size. The design on these bills was the last ever issued on Silver Certificates prior to that size reduction. Because of the limited availability of these sheets, we ask that you order soon.

☐ Grading

We guarantee that coins purchased from us are graded correctly and will meet our high standards when you wish to sell them. Further, we guarantee to purchase these coins at the same grade at which they were sold, or sell them for you at auction cataloged at the same grade at which you purchased them.

Our grading system is patterned after that of the American Numismatic Association. Developed in 1978, the A.N.A. System is rapidly being adopted by virtually the entire professional numismatic community. Its designations are:

Poor.....	1
Fair.....	2
About Good.....	3
Good.....	4,5
Very Good.....	8,10
Fine.....	12,15
Very Fine.....	20,25,30,35
Extremely Fine.....	40,45
About Uncirculated.....	50,55,58
Mint State.....	60,63,64,65,66,67,69,70
Proof.....	60,63,65,67,69,70

Slash grades indicate obverse/reverse designations. For example, a grade of 65/63 describes a coin with an obverse of Mint State 65 and a reverse of Mint State 63.
